GOOD NOW FEELS CAMPAIGN TO COST NEARER $300,000

Commerce Secretary's Director, Testifying Before Senate Investigators, Increases His Previous Estimate—Witness Denies Hoover In 1920 Was Preparing To Issue Statement Declaring Himself A Democrat.

WASHINGTON, May 12—(By the Associated Press)—The campaign expenditures on behalf of Herbert Hoover were placed by the directing head of his organization today at $241,274.41, exclusive of possible expenditures in California outside of the southern portion of the state.

James W. Good, who testified before the senate investigating committee and who had estimated that the total would fall below $250,000, said he now believed he would have to revise his figures upward. When asked if they would go to $300,000 or more, he said he did not think they would be that high. The total included Good's calculation that the campaign in Ohio cost $40,000.

As he gave his testimony, the witness said that $40,000 spent by the Hoover headquarters here compared with $250,000 spent by the Coolidge organization here in 1924. He told the committee Frank O Lowden had expenditures of $414,987 in 1920 and that the late Leonard Wood had spent $1,733,330 in the same campaign.

Good was questioned at length as to why Hoover had entered contests in certain states and stayed out of those in others. He assumed the relationship between Hoover and Secretary Mellon had restrained him from going into Pennsylvania.

Senator Barkley, democrat, Kentucky, questioned the witness as to charges that Hoover was not a good republican. Good denied these suggestions, finally saying, in reply to a question, that it was not true that Hoover was preparing a statement in 1920 that he was a democrat and that Julius Barnes persuaded him not to do so because there was a better chance for republican success that year. The wit-

NAVY SEEKING BODY OF FLIER

Rooney Plunges Into Sea While Trying to Land On Plane Carrier.

SAN PEDRO, Cal., May 12—(AP)—Resources of the navy today were directed to the attempt to recover from the waters fifteen miles off San Diego a naval fighting plane and the body of Lieut. Joseph John Rooney, strapped in its cockpit, the victim perhaps of a heroic plunge taken to avoid endangering a comrade.

After the fall of the plane into the water Thursday while Rooney was attempting a landing on the aircraft carrier Lexington, a patrol of boats were thrown about the area and divers ordered from San Diego. They were kept vainly in the search throughout yesterday and last night.

Fleet officials said a board of inquiyr would investigate the accident, but no formal announcement of the calling of such an investigation was made.

Witnesses of the accident expressed the opinion that Lieutenant Rooney, sweeping over the deck of the Lexington, saw another airplane about to be launched from the deck. His plane swerved, fell into a side slip and dropped into the sea. Previously he had shown remarkable skill in bringing his plane to the deck of the carrier as she drove through the sea.

PARENT APPEALS FROM RULING ON PUPIL'S CLOTHES

DENVER, Colo., May 12—(AP)—The Colorado Supreme court has been asked to decide whether a girl can be barred from high school for failure to conform to rules on uniform dress.

In an appeal from a decision upholding the demand of the Huerfano county school committee for uniform clothing, S. Julian Lamme of Walsenburg, contends the officials of that institution have exceeded their authority. The committee ruled that girl students must wear a plain white cotton blouse with not more than three straight rows of braid on the collar and sleeves, a black tie and a blue skirt.

Lamme said his daughter, Rosalie, was refused admission to the school November last, when she appeared in clothing at variance with that prscribed.

"I am unable to understand why a child wearing a middy having three straight rows of braid shall be a better student than one wearing six rows of braid," Lamme said in his petition.

STATE JAVELIN RECORD BROKEN

Scott Reynolds Sets New Mark in High School Track Meet.

LAMBERT BREAKS RECORD.

Richard Lambert, Kearney high school sprint star, broke the state 100-yard dash record Saturday afternoon when he covered the distance in the amazing time of 9.9 seconds. The former record of 10.2 seconds was made 24 years ago, and although tied several times had never been bettered.

To Roby of Nelson also goes the honor of bettering the 10.2 mark. He ran the 100 yards in 10.1 seconds.

BY GREGG McBRIDE.

The finals of the twenty-sixth annual Nebraska interscholastic track and field championships got under way at the Nebraska Memorial stadium this afternoon with ideal weather conditions prevailing.

A fast track promised some new records, but the first record performance was turned in by a field event performer. Scott Reynolds of Minatare bettered the state mark for the javelin cast when he hurled the spear 169 feet 8 1-2 inches. The former record of 169 feet 1½ inches was held by George Miller of Havelock and made in 1926.

The first event on the program, the 120-yard high hurdles in group one went to Boyd, versatile Danbury athlete, in 16 4-10 seconds. Barker of Crofton tripped over the fifth hurdle and fell across the track, spilling Illingsworth of Fairfield.

The group two high hurdles produced a great race between Clem Trumble of Cambridge and Petz of Nelson. The panr teamed it over the barriers with Trumble holding a slight lead over the first eight hurdles. Petz closed up the gap and beat Trumble out in the final sprint. The time of 15 7-10 seconds was within two-tenths of a second of the state record held by Harold Trumble of Cambridge.

Summary of Meet.

120-yard high hurdles (group one)—Won by Boyd, Danbury; second, Andrews, Randolph; third, Shaffner, North Loup; fourth, O'Furey, Hartington. Time, 16 4-10 seconds.

12?-yard high hurdles (group two)—Won by Petz, Nelson; second, Trumble, Cambridge; third, Linus Carroll, Cambridge; fourth, Hill, Tecumseh. Time, 15 7-10 seconds.

M'DERMOTT RUN OVER BY TRUCK

Driver Says Pedestrian Stepped in Path of Machine.

As a result of serious injuries, sustained when he was run over by a truck driven by Peter Faust, 717 New Hampshire street, Gene Mcdermott, 27, of Marion, O., is in St. Elizabeth's hospital today. He received a broken pelvis and injuries to his abdomen in the accident on West O street near the Salt creek bridge late Friday night.

Both McDermott and the truck were headed towards Lincoln. Mr. McDermott was walking at the edge of the pavement but, according to Faust, stepped directly into the path o fthe truck when it was very close behind him. A front wheel passed over McDermott's body, Faust said, but the machine was stopped before the back wheels touched the pedestrian.

Dr. Edwin Katskee, attending Mr. McDermott, said that the man's chief injuries are internal, but he believes McDermott will recover.

CONFEREES ARE IN AGREEMENT ON FARM BILL

Eliminate Differences In Measures Passed by Senate and House.

VETO EXPECTED FROM PRESIDENT

Senate Has Necessary Two-thirds to Over-ride; Lower Doesn't

WASHINGTON, May 12—(By the Associated Press)—An agreement on the final form of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill was reached today by conferees of the senate and house.

Differences between the measures passed by the senate and house were of a more or less minor character.

It is the hope of Senator McNary republican of Oregon, co-author of the measure, to get the legislation before President Coolidge by next Wednesday. A veto is expected.

A two-thirds vote is required to override a veto. The senate passed the McNary-Haugen bill by more than a two-third majority, but this margin was not mustered in the house vote.

The senate provision exempting fresh fruits and vegetables from the terms of the equalization fee was accepted by the conferees, but another senate proposal to put beef and beef products in this class was turned down.

The house language regarding selection of the advisory council's, which would have veto power over the imposition of the equalization fee respecting their commodities, also was accepted.

Boulder Dam Action Likely.

WASHINGTON, May 12—(AP)—After a meeting of the house rules committee today there were indications that it probably would act early next week on the request by supporters of the Swing-Johnson Boulder canyon dam bill that the measure be called up in the house at this session.

After the meeting several member said privately that their opinion was that the rules body should not assume responsibility for delaying consideration of the measure. They believed that if the proposal to give the project the right of way in the

BEATRICE WINS DEBATE TITLE

Defeats Hastings In the Final Contest of State Tourney.

Champions Argued Negative Side of Child Labor Question.

Beatrice high school's debate team won the state championship and the Nebraska Bar association cup by defeating Hastings in the final forensic contest of the Nebraska High School Debating league's twenty-first annual tournament at Morrill hall on the university campus Saturday morning.

Beatrice had the negative side of the question, "Resolved, that Congress should submit to the several states a new child labor amendment." The judges' decision was two to one for Beatrice.

The cup which goes to Beatrice would have become the permanent possession of Hastings had the decision been for the affirmative. Hastings won the cup last year, and it becomes the property of the school winning it twice.

The members of the Beatrice team were Dale McClanahan, Howard Gillespie, and Edward Brewster. McClanahan is a senior in high school and has debated three years, and was captain of the football team last fall. Gillespie is editor of the 1928 high school annual and is a member of the National Honor society, scholastic organization. He was vice president of the junior class last year. Brewster, also a senior, has debated two years, is school cheer leader, and president of the student council.

Upholding the affirmative side of the question, Hastings' debaters sought to prove that child labor is a national evil because it involves interstate trade, and that the states separately are not progressive in their legislation on child labor.

Beatrice's first speaker, Dale McClanahan, argued that states with low child labor laws are not in fact those with most manufacturing, and declared that the manufacturers themselves are in favor of child labor regulation and control. The negative team argued that national legislation on the matter is unnecessary, impracticable, and undesirable.

The judges were Prof. Gayle C. Walker, Clarence L. Clark and Rev. Carl H. Wilhelm. Prof. H. A. White, secretary of the Nebraska High School Debating league, presided.

The debate coaches of the twelve competing schools were given a complimentary luncheon Saturday

ROSS BROWN, 27, DIES IN PLANE CRASH ON COAST

Former Lincoln Man Loses Life As His Fiancee Looks On.

When the plane which he was piloting on a test flight crashed at a Los Angeles landing field last Wednesday, Ross W. Brown, 27, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brown of 4200 N street, was killed, according to word received in Lincoln Saturday.

Brown was born in Lincoln and lived here until three years ago when he moved to Los Angeles. While in Lincoln he worked for the Burlington for several years and at one time he carried the Lincoln Star paper route on east O street.

The plane crashed to the ground from an altitude of about 100 feet while Brown's fiancee, Miss Josephine Johnson, who was watching the test flight, screamed helplessly. Brown and Miss Johnson jointly owned a lunch wagon at the airport and were to have been married soon.

Funeral services and burial were at Los Angeles.

The account of the accident appearing in a Los Angeles paper follows:

"Brown recently purchased an old army type plane and engaged Lee Wiley, 24, of 1447 West 103rd street, to instruct him in flying.

"The plane had just been overhauled and last Monday a new radiator was installed. The machine was moved to a starting line Tuesday. Brown was piloting the craft. About 100 feet from the ground the ship ran into a back-wash of a descending plane, went into a side slip and crashed.

"Wiley received numerous cuts and bruises but Brown suffered fractures of both legs at the ankles and a crushed chest and died at the Georgia street receiving hospital an hour later.

"Employes of the airfield removed the wrecked plane to a hangar awaiting an official investigation."

FORD PILOTS LOSE LIVES IN DETROIT CRASH

Two Killed as Tri-Motor Plane Plunges and Catches Fire.

HAD STARTED ON HOP TO BUFFALO

Claimed Ship Forced Off Ground Without Sufficient Flying Speed.

DETROIT, Mich., May 12—(By the Assaciated Press)—Two pilots of the Ford Motor Co. were killed today when a tri-motor transport plane crashed and caught fire soon after taking off from the Ford airport at 8:45 a. m.

The men killed were William Munn and E. K. Parker, both of Detroit.

The pilots were on their first regular run to Buffalo, N. Y., on a freight route.

Edward G. Hamilton, chief of operations of the Ford air line service, said the accident occurred when Munn, who was at the controls, forced the plane off the ground without sufficient flying speed.

Soon after rising the big airship stalled, slid off on one wing and spun to the ground near the Michigan Central railroad tracks close to the airport. The plane was wrecked and both men are believed to have died almost instantly.

Both Were Married.

Munn formerly was a test pilot for the Hess Aircraft Co. of Wyandotte, a suburb. Parker formerly resided at Denver, Colo. Both were married and both only recently had become pilots for the Ford airline service.

The plane, an all-metal airship carried a load of freight. When it crashed a broken wing punctured the gasoline tank and the fuel was ignited. It was more than an hour after the accident before the bodies of the victims, both burned, could be recovered.

The fatalities were the first involving a Ford tri-motor airplane.

MELLON GIVES HERBERT HOOVER HIS SUPPORT

Says Secretary Comes Closest to Standards Set for High Office.

PHILADELPHIA, May 12—(By the Associated Press.)—Recommending that they hold themselves unpledged and uncommitted to any particular presidential candidate, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon this afternoon told the Pennsylvania republican national delegates that Herbert Hoover "seems to come closest to the standards that we set for this high office."

Secretary Mellon made this statement at the caucus of the Pennsylvania delegates at which he was elected chairman of the delegation. His statement was as follows:

"I thank you for the honor you have done me in selecting me as your chairman. It is a very real honor, for ours is a very real responsibility. The man selected by the republican convention as the nominee of our party will in all human probability be the next president of the United States. At Kansas City, therefore, we will not merely be nominating a candidate, but selecting a president.

"Under the leadership of President Coolidge the record of the republican party has been such as to entitle it to the confidence of the nation."

"It enjoys that confidence. The people unquestionably will give us a new grant of power if they are satisfied that the policies, principles and wise administrative practices which have given economy and efficiency in government and brought prosperity and contentment to the people are to be continued.

"Our platform must furnish a definite pledge that they will. But

The women were working on the mangle when the blast occurred. The one story brick laundry building was wrecked and window panes in buildings for two blocks surrounding the laundry were blown out.

Hole blown in Roof.

The mangle was situated in the center of the main room of the laundry where about twenty-five women and girls were employed. The explosion tore out the front of the building and blew a large hole in the roof of the structure. Many of the workers were badly scalded by the steam which filled the room.

Elmer Merrill, engineer at the laundry plant, could not account for the explosion. He said that he had just started to heat up the machine for the day's work and that there was only a pressure of about seventy pounds when the blast occurred. He said that the machine usually carried a pressure of from eighty-five to ninety pounds. The mangle, he said, was in good condition.

Pieces of iron were carried from the wrecked building for several blocks. Several feet of tracks of the Union Traction Co., in front of the laundry were torn up by the blast.

Several May Die.

Several of the injured are believed to be fatally hurt. They are:

Miss Lilly Pohlman, body cut and bruised and internal injuries; Miss Nellie Pohlman, internal injuries; Dora Schmidt and May Royer.

Charles Fridlin, owner of the laundry, was severely injured by flying pieces of iron and suffered a nervous shock. He collapsed shortly after the explosion and his condition was regarded as serious.

The material damage is estimated at $10,000.

The bandit was between 28 and 30 years old, weighed about 165 pounds, was of slender build and about 5 feet 10 inches tall. He was well dressed, wearing a gray suit with the collar turned up and a light cap with the bill pulled down. He used a blue steel gun in the holdup and appeared very much at ease. Mr. Davison told Lieutenant Rymer.

As Mr. Davison continued on his way, the coupe across the street started in the opposite direction with all lights off.

AGENTS WARNED STOP SHOOTING

Dry Officers Are Told Firing at Suspects Must Cease.

WASHINGTON, May 12—(AP)—Prohibition enforcement agents throughout the country were under fresh and strict orders today from Washington that promiscuous shooting at suspected law violators must stop at once.

The new warning went out from dry headquarters in the treasury simultaneously with the announcement that Robert Taylor, a West Virginia enforcement agent, had been dismissed for firing at an automobile that failed to stop for inspection.

Although somewhat similar to the shooting of John D. Hanson, of Niagara Falls, New York, by coast guardsmen, which is now causing a row in congress, Commissioner Doran said the dismissal of Taylor and the issuance of the new orders to his men had no connection with that incident. He explained that the Hanson case was purely a coast guard matter, even though this arm participates in the enforcement of the dry law.

"We are not going to put up with firing on vehicles on highways whether they stop when commanded or not," Doran said. "We will certainly not shield officers charged with this offense and we will aid states at any time within reasonable limits. Of course a particular case depends on the facts."

Coast Officers Held.

FRESNO, Cal., May 12—(AP)—Alvin R. Cole, a constable, and Special Deputy Sheriff Ira B. Chalmers were held on charges of manslaughter here today for shooting to death Frank Aiello in Pinedale, Cal., last Saturday night. Cole and Chalmers fired on an automobile in which Aiello was riding in the belief that they were about to capture a liquor runner. No liquor was found.

The warrant was issued by City Justice Earl J. Church at the request of Frank Curran, an attorney who had been retained by the local organization of the Sons of Italy to prosecute the case after a grand jury failed to indict the two officers.

DAYTON, Tenn., May 12—(AP)—Construction of the first unit of Bryan Memorial university, a fundamentalist institution in memory of William Jennings Bryan, was begun here Friday with a simple ceremony attended by many residents of this little mountain community where "the Commoner" fought his last fight in the celebrated Scopes case and died.

Throwing the lever that released the first batch of concrete for the 440 foot stone building, former Congressman William D. Upshaw, Georgia, characterized Bryan as the "gladstone of America, whose name will have a premier place among the immortals of our Christion civilization."

F. E. Robinson, president of the Bryan Memorial association and owner of the drug store in which the Scopes case had its inception, presided.

WHEELER TAKES STAND IN FAVOR GOVERNOR SMITH

Montana Senator Says New Yorker is Best Bet for President.

Declares Al Should Get Nomination By Acclamation.

WASHINGTON, May 12—(AP)—Another western senator—Wheeler of Montana—was riding aboard the Smith bandwagon today, firm in the belief that the New York governer "is now the best bet of the democrats" for the presidency.

Wheeler, who bolted his party in 1924 to run for vice president on a third party ticket headed by the late Senator La Follette, republican, Wisconsin, endorsed Smith's candidacy yesterday in a letter to W. W. McDowell, chairman of the Montana democratic central committee.

Senator Walsh, Wheeler's colleague, recently withdrew from the race for the nomination at Houston, declaring the results of the California primary, in which he and Senator Reed of Missouri, were defeated by Smith, showed the apparent futility of contesting further with the governor.

Wheeler said in his judgment Smith should be nominated by acclamation. He described the leading democratic candidate as a "liberal in the best sense of the word," a "born democrat" and a man who, standing as he does for "law enforcement," would improve conditions as they have existed under the Harding-Coolidge administrations.

Says Now Convinced.

The senator mentioned in his letter that he had hoped at one time that Walsh would be the democratic bearer, but that it had become apparent to his colleague, as it did to many of his friends, "that the democrats of the nation were in favor of the candidacy of Governor Smith."

McDowell was a leader in the Montana movement to gain the support of that state's eight delegates for Walsh, but with the latter's withdrawal Smith supporters claimed the way had been cleared for the governor to bag this western block to be selected next week. Smith has the support of the state's national committeeman, J. Bruce Kremer.

Smith further was described by Wheeler as a man who had "not been weaned or educated or frightened away from the principles of fundamental democracy."

Timmerman Is Held On Killing Charge

Shubert Man Is Found Bound Over For Slaying of G. W. Lewis, Hotel Proprietor.

FALLS CITY, Neb., May 12—(AP)—Charles Timmerman of Shubert, was bound over to the present term of District court under $1,500 bond, following preliminary examination before County Judge Virgil Falloon, late Friday on a manslaughter charge.

Timmerman must face trial in the higher court in connection with the fatal shooting April 11, of G. W. Lewis, hotel proprietor at Shubert. Lewis bled to death after being shot in the leg while at the hotel. The most important witness was H. L. Kinsey, Shubert undertaker who testified that there were no powder burns on Lewis' leg, indicating that he was not in possession of the gun when the shooting occurred.

Timmerman had previously told authorities that the gun accidentally discharged when he attempted to wrest it from Lewis after the latter had theatened to commit suicide.

Today

2 Wars, Oil and Asiatic.
He Worked With Ford.
Mr. Hughes on Monroe.
To Protect Husbands.

By Arthur Brisbane.

John D. Rockefeller, jr., invited Robert W. Stewart, head of Standard Oil of Indiana, to resign. Stewart, his friends say, won't resign, and "Wall street" says "War coming in Standard oil ranks."

Unless the Rockefeller family has changed that war will be like an express train meeting a small automobile at a crossing. When an "irresistible force meets an immovable obstacle," the immovable obstacle is apt to move, if the irresistible force happens to be the combined resources of the Rockefellers and their friends.

A little war, starting between China and Japan, may become a big war. You never can tell what will happen when a lighted match is dropped in a forest.

Enough has happened already to show the difference between Japan and China. The French have a saying, "Comme on batrait la Chine," "Like beating China." According to the French, beating China, is the easiest thing in the world. Japan did it easily the last time. Millions of Chinese didn't even know the war had begun.

However, Chinese are brave, and murdering each other, north fighting south, they have learned things they did not know before.

"Let him not boast that putteth his armor on."

"In the early days," not long ago, two men stood shoulder to shoulder at the work bench of a little shop in Detroit. One of them, with a keen, thin face, "was always thinking." That was Henry Ford. The other, David Gray, died Wednesday in Santa Barbara, leaving a fortune of millions that will be increased two or three million dollars, thanks to a recent income tax decision.

Henry Ford works on, starting in the automobile business all over again, with a new car, planning a new, more powerful tractor, working for new ideas that will mean millions for a few, good wages for many.

Fortunate were many, close to Ford "in the old days." Fortunate are all that think as they work.

Charles Evans Hughes renders public service in his lecture, "Our Relations to the Western Hemisphere." Mr. Hughes shows enemies of the Monroe doctrine that they are enemies of this country and this continent. The Panama canal and aviation make that doctrine "essentially defensive, threatening none, a safe-guard with which no responsible American would be rash enough to attempt to dispense."

Vienna's "league for the protection of men" seeks to protect them against designing wives.

The league writes to Charlie Chaplin, "Austria is a hell for husbands" and invites him to come and tell about America.

Mr. Chaplin, who has had rough experiences, could tell the protected husbands "You ain't seen nothing until you explore Hollywood."

Schopenhauer, in his studies in pessimism, says women are engaged in a conspiracy "to make every man support some one woman all of her life."

That, fortunately, is true. And that wise conspiracy has gradually endorsed civilized men during the last 1,000,000 years. They are not really civilized yet, as any wife can testify.

Robert Weiner, once sentenced to death, walks to freedom after 13 months in the death house.

Twelve men walked past him to the electric chair while he waited his turn. Once more in the sunshine, he said, "Gee, it's great to be out."

A death house residence, with the electric chair close by, is necessary to make many human beings realize life's value.

Congratulations to Jiji Shimpo, Japanese newspaper, and Toichiro Araki, energetic Japanese. The latter Wednesday finished in 33 days, 16 hours, 26 minutes, a trip around the world, financed by Jiji Shimpo. Araki used only established lines.

POPE CRITICISES ATTIRE OF WOMEN

Pius Issues Encyclical on Occasion of Feast of Achilles the Martyr.

ROME, May 12—(AP)— Women's clothes are criticised in the latest encyclical of Pope Pius.

Issued on the occasion of the feast of his own patron saint, Achilles the Martyr, the document deals with "the reparation that all owe to the most sacred heart of Jesus." It impresses upon all the duty of asking forgiveness for looseness of morals and neglect of religious practices.

The pontiff complains that the faithful neglect ecclesiastic discipline and forget Christian tradition "which is the support of the entire Christian life, regulates domestic societ yand defends the holiness of marriage." He continues:

"So, too, the education of youth is entirely neglected or spoiled by too effeminate care, while the church is even denied the faculty of giving to youth a Christian education

"Christian modesty has been lamentably forgotten in the way of living and the dressing of women, especially while an insatiable hunger for the perishable things of this world, anxious seeking for popular favor and a disdain of legimate authority and the word of God predominate, thus shaking the faith or endangering it seriously."

SCHOOLMASTERS HEAR M'ANDREW

Modern Trend In Educational Methods Told By Speaker.

Dr. William McAndrew, former superintendent of schools at Chicago, presented a spirited exposition of the worthiness and dignity of the educational profession to 200 members of the Nebraska Schoolmasters' club at the annual banquet at the Lincoln hotel Friday night.

The changing status of the teaching profession was the central theme of Dr. McAndrew. The speaker vigorously opposed political interference in the appointment of teachers or the selection of textbooks.

That teaching is a profession reaching a high level was emphasized by the speaker. "Education is now a science with methods not based on what you and I say, and it is an art depending on the results of experiment, as elaborate as medicine, more so than law, with the future of human lives depending on it," he said.

School management is no longer something to be relegated to the little schoolhouse, but is a business, Dr. McAndrew brought out. School management costs more than any other type of business and the people accordingly have the right to expect it to be run on a business basis with a maximum of success on the part of the students, he declared.

Vigorous denunciations of the "Boston idea" of education were frequent in Mr. McAndrew's talk. The community will judge the success of the business of education by the success of the pupils turned out and the business success will depend upon the degree in which the teachers can bring out latent powers of the students, he pointed out.

The teaching profession has all the rudiments of being one of the noblest professions, but has been slow in forming a code of ethics and organizing, the speaker said. He predicted rapid advancement in the future because of recent steps toward progress and the improved attitude of the public toward the profession.

The usefulness of school boards was rapped by Dr. McAndrew in no uncertain terms. "In the first place," he said, "the boards are composed of men who know nothing of the problems and the viewpoint of the teacher and the science of his work."

W. J. Braham, president of the club, presided at the banquet. Assembly singing was directed by Glenn Case. Dean Parvin Witte and Prof. Oscar Bennett of Nebraska Wesleyan university sang a vocal duet, Mrs. Oscar Bennett accompanying at the piano.

A business session followed the banquet and speech.

JAPANESE MAY SUBMIT TSINAN DISPUTE LEAGUE

World Body Hesitates to Act at Request of Nationalists.

GENEVA, May 12—(AP)—Japanese officials are considering the advisability of having Japan herself submit the Shantung dispute to the League of Nations, the Associated Press was informed today from a reliable source.

Should the Tokyo government adopt this course it would not be officially taken as a consequence of the nationalist protest to the league, which has no juridical standing under the terms of the covenant, but as an independent move by a member of the league desirous to explain her position, this being that Japan has no ambition or intention whatsoever to violate Chinese integrity and territorial independence.

Want Direct Negotiations.

GENEVA, May 12—(AP)—It was hoped today in League of Nations circles that direct negotiations between Japan and China might result from the Nanking nationalist government's protest to the league.

The Nanking government accused Japan of ruthless and warlike violation of Chinese territory and independence and appealed to the league. In the league circles, however, the opinion was that it would hesitate to countenance an official investigation.

The covenant prevents the machinery from functioning in the settlement of the dispute unless some government recognized as a member brings the matter before the league. The government of Marshal Chang Tso-Lin at Peking, and not the Nanking nationalists, is recognized as being the official spokesman for 400,000,000 Chinese. Both it and Japan are members of the league council.

It was thought that if the league itself should order an investigation that would establish a precident which revoluionary groups of less importance in other countries would immediately follow.

Governments Must Decide.

The secretariat of the league, after receiving the Nanking protest, discussed the matter with Sir Eric Drummond, secretary general. It was decided to put the entire question, as well as the entire responsibility, up to the members of the council. The governments represented on the council must therefore decide whether Nanking has a de facto mandate to speak for China. With that it seemed the secretariat's role was ended unless the Peking government or some other league member requested an investigation.

Cheng Loh, representative of the Peking government on the council, expressed the hope that direct negotiations between Japan and China for the settlement of the Shantung conflict would be inaugurated.

The Japanese delegation to the league cabled the text of the Nanking protest to Tokyo and was awaiting the advice of the home government.

$2,000,000 FUND SOLICITED FOR DISABLED VETS

NEW YORK, May 12—(AP)—A $2,000,000 trust fund for disabled former service men is to be raised by a committee of business men who have appointed Col. Theodore Roosevelt as head of the organization committee.

The fund will be expended over a period of ten years by the Disabled American Veterans of the World war to assist the disabled in preparation and presentation of their cases to the veterans bureau and assist them in obtaining disability compensation, insurance reinstatement and other rights.

Gen. Frank T. Hines, director of the Veterans' bureau, told the meeting that although nearly 357,000 disabled veterans already had been granted compensation, the number of disability cases was steadily growing and that the peak of mental and nervous cases would not be reached until 1949.

What is Your Idea--- as to How Our Bargain Basement is Operated?

¶ Do you think our Bargain Basement is operated as an "outlet" for merchandise that won't sell in other departments of the store?

¶ Do you think the goods in our Bargain Basement are inferior, out-of-date or shopworn?

PURPORTED EYE DOCTORS TAKEN

Collect Money For Removing Alleged Cataract From Optic.

(Special to The Star.)

AUBURN, Neb., May 12—John Raymond and Robert Kay, charged with having collected $187.50 from a resident of Brownville, named Clifton, for the removal of an alleged cataract from one of his eyes, were in County court Friday and upon motion of their attorney were granted until next Friday to plead.

They were arrested by the sheriff at Nebraska City and turned over to the Nemaha county authorities. Mr. Clifton, who swore to the complaint, said the men appeared at his home Wednesday, representing themselves as eye specialists, and told him he had a cataract.

Fluid was placed in his eye and something removed that they showed to Mr. Clifton, stating that that was the cataract, and Mr. Clifton appeared to believe them. He then gave them the check for the above mentioned amount and when the strangers appeared at the bank in Nemaha to cash the same the banker became suspicious and phoned Mr. Clifton, who told the banker that he had given it to the strangers and it was cashed.

Mr. Clifton said that the doctors told him not to mention the matter to his son, but when Mr. Clifton's son heard about the deal he got in touch with the sheriff and later the men were traced to Nebraska City, where they were arrested.

As soon as the arrest was made a man and woman arrived from Kansas City who were ready to give bond for the men.

Ross Is Plotting Steal Pyle Stuff

CHICAGO, May 12—(AP)—Norman Ross of Chicago, the 1920 Olympic swimming champion, proposes to go Charles "Cash" Pyle, trans-continental derby entrepreneur, one better in marathon promotion. He is planning a long distance swimming race from either Chicago, Pittsburgh, Minneapolis or St. Paul to New Orleans.

The race is to start about August 1, with cash prizes totaling $50,000. There are to be two divisions, one for men and another for women. Under tentative plans, contestants would swim not more than six hours daily, wit a two-hour stop for luncheon and rest. Ross believes the race will last 90 days.

Three Routes Considered.

Three routes are being considered for the swimming marathon. From Pittsburgh to New Orleans via the Ohio and Mississippi rivers; from Lake Michigan at Chicago to New Orleans via the Chicago drainage canal, the Illinois and Mississippi. The distance over the latter course is approximately 2,000 miles.

Although conditions for the contest are yet in the formative stage, entry blanks containing all details will be ready June 1, Ross said. he expects 500 entrants.

ABANDON 492,000 ACRES OF WHEAT

General Condition For State Estimated at 14 Percent of Normal.

Approximately 492,000 acres, or 13 per cent of the 3,781,000 acres which were sown to winter wheat last fall in Nebraska have been abandoned, according to the report issued Saturday by the state and federal bureau of crop statistics. The report estimates that approximately 3,289,000 acres are left for harvesting.

Last year it was estimated that 3,457,000 acres of winter wheat were harvested in Nebraska. The heaviest abandonment this year occurred in southwest Nebraska where it ranged from 25 to 60 per cent. The general average for abandonment in that part of the state is estimated at 34 per cent.

In other parts of the state the percentage of abandonment was as follows: west central, 12 per cent; central, 13 per cent; south central 9 per cent. The losses in the east central and southeast districts were very slight.

The general condition of the winter wheat for the state as a whole is estimated at 74 per cent of normal at the present time, the report states, and the indicated production is estimated at 45,026,000 bushels as compared to 70,568,000 of last year.

The condition of rye is placed at 72 per cent, which indicates a probable production of 2,668,000 bushels on the 247,000 acres left for harvesting. The condition of pastures is 64 per cent, and of tame hay meadows 67 per cent. About 13.5 per cent of last year's hay crop is still on hand.

In general, the report continues, the spring season is slightly backward but farm work is well advanced. Oats were injured somewhat by freezing temperatures, and in some places there was not sufficient moisture to sprout the seed, but the recent rains have improved conditions greatly.

More moisture is needed, the report asserts, and until a good subsoil reserve is obtained the general crop conditions cannot be said to be good.

REACH AGREEMENT ON A MARINE BILL

WASHINGTON, May 12—(AP)—House and senate conferees agreed today on a merchant marine bill, composing the difference between the Jones and White measures.

The house provision permitting the sale of government vessels hereafter upon vote of five of the seven members of the shipping board was accepted over the senate demand for unanimous consent of the board of sales.

This point was the hub of the controversy between the two branches of congress and was believed to make the measure more acceptable to President Coolidge who had indicated some displeasure with the proposal to require unanimous consent of the board.

GIRL WHO ADMITS 'LICKING TEACHER' TO BE SENTENCED

Readily admitting "beating up" Miss Elma Hardnock, petite Prairie Home school teacher, on May 7, after Miss Hardnock had "licked" her "kid-brother," 16-year-old Nellie McCart, who had been in hiding several days because she was "scared of the law," was arraigned before Municipal Judge Chapell Friday afternoon on a charge of assault and battery.

As punishment for the assault, Nellie will be committed to the detention home for several weeks if Matron Jones is willing, Judge Chappell said Saturday morning. Either a jail sentence or a fine could be imposed, but "no 16-year-old girl like Nellie should go to jjail," Judge Chappell declared.

The trouble started on an outing when Lincoln McCart, Nellie's "kid brother," threw clods at his teacher, Miss Hardnock. Miss Hardnock tried to catch him then but the youngster slipped away. So the next morning when Lincoln came to school, the teacher gave him a whipping. Another member of the McCart family was in the school room and when the teacher started to punish Lincoln, he went after Nellie.

Nellie returned full of fury. The battle which followed resulted in two severe bumps on Miss Hardnock's head, a broken rib and bruised spots all over her body, she testified. Miss Hardnock had been challenged by Nellie to a fight several days before, the teacher said.

Miss Barstow's Pupils Present Dance Recital

Colorful and striking costumes, unique backgrounds, and charming young coryphees made the dance recital of the pupils of Miss Marjorie L. Barstow at the Temple theater Friday evening a delightful affair. Miss Barstow is an artist in grouping her dancers, and each ensemble pose was as effective as that of any professional stage.

Miss Muriel Blum Outwater of the Martha Graham studios of New York appeared in a series of unusual dance moods, suggested largely by rhythmic gesture, rather than by dance steps. Miss Outwater is a graceful person, who brought several picturesque, novel dance plaques to us.

Lincoln's own youngsters were all clever little dancers, intensely interested in their own work and as much as ease on the stage as on the street. "Komos," a comical dance of the early Greeks, with its odd costuming and straight stiff forms, was most interesting, and the pictures of "Suite of Valses," with its varied lighting effects, was very effective. "The Fire Bird," and "Pandora" were two of the heavier, outstanding numbers of the evening.

C. H. OLDFATHER HEADS TEACHERS

History Instructors Hear Dean Loeb Talk On Government Theory.

Dr. Charles H. Olydfather of the university was elected president of the Nebraska History Teachers association at the closing session of the annual meeting held this morning at the Social Sciences auditorium.

G. A. Barringer of Nebraska Wesleyan university was elected vice president, Miss Ruth Price of Lincoln high school will continue as secretary-treasurer until her term closes.

Speaking on the subject, "Federal Aid and States Rights" Dean Isidore Loeb of Washington university of St. Louis, declared that "twentieth century problems cannot be dealt with by means of eighteenth century methods" and that a social revolution had transformed the relations of tht central government and the states.

"The power of the government should be just as broad as the fundamental functions, and it should embrace all activities which cannot be effectively cared for by the state alone," he said. If the state is willing and capable of taking care of its problems, it should have the privilege of doing so, but if it is unwilling and unable to do so, the government should at least be able to stimulate and supervise action.

Papers were presented by three members of the association, Prof. C M. Kneier of the university spoke on "Some of tht problems of Municipal Government" urging that the county and city governments either be united or separated territorially to avoid duplication and conflict of jurisdiction.

Prof C. E. McNeill of the university spoke on "Economic Aspects of the New York Municipal Subway," and Prof. John L. La Monte of the university gave a reading entitled "Le Chanson de Croisade."

MUST FIND NEW PLACE AT CAPITOL FOR G. A. R. RELICS

On the initiative of W. E. Hardy, member of the capitol commission, arrangements have been made to have the old glass showcase containing battle flags and other relics of the Civil and Spanish-American wars removed from the vestibule inside the north entrance to the building, on the first floor, to a place where it will not interfere with the view of interior architectural features.

The big cabinet occupied a central position in the old capitol, at the intersection of the two main hallways, and when that edifice was torn down 3 years ago it was removed to the location in the vestibule of the new structure. At that time there was a temporary wall behind it, as the middle portion of the present capitol had not yet been constructed.

Recently the temporary wall was torn out and now the public can traverse the grand foyer which leads to the central rotunda. The showcase thus not only became out of harmony with its surroundings, but it cut off a perspective of the foyer, which is perhaps the most imposing outlook to be found anywhere in the new capitol.

It was agreed Saturday morning by Governor McMullen and Mr. Hardy and W. L. Younkin, superintendend of construction, that the war relic cabinet should be transferred to the ground floor of the capitol, in the square hall beneath the rotunda, and placed to one side there, so that it will not obstruct the view from one end of the middle passageway to the other.

Eventually, Governor McMullen said, the relics will be given permanent space in the memorial hall in the tower. Something must be done in the meantime, he declared, to preserve the old flags and keep them from crumbling to dust. This can be done by sewing invisible netting around them to hold torn edges together. An appropriation for that purpose may be asked of the next legislature.

Since the permanent hallways of the new capitol through the middle part of the building and along the east side have now been opened up to the public, the temporary enclosed passage on the west, in use for several years, is now shut off and will soon be torn down to make way for construction operations on the tower.

THE UNHOLY ALLIANCE.

Ex-Governor Samuel R. McKelvie of Nebraska cried out in Washington Thursday against what he termed as "an unthinkable tieup of the radical west with ultra-conservative international bankers of the east" to defeat the nomination of Herbert Hoover as the republican candidate for president.

Mr. McKelvie's complaint has been directed against a practice which has been common in politics, of which the former governor himself has been a beneficiary. In 1920, when Mr. McKelvie was seeking reelection, there was an unholy alliance between prominent republicans, favoring the league of nations and the world court, with the irreconcilable opponents of the league, in behalf of Warren Harding. It gained thousands of straight republican votes, which not only gave Mr. Harding the presidency but likewise enabled Mr. McKelvie to defeat his opponent in Nebraska.

Practically every campaign has provided the novel and disgusting spectacle of large blocs of voters, with diverse interests, and with alien sympathies, herded together under one banner. Because of an efficient organization, the republican party has been able to effect these alliances. The democratic party, with a greater degree of independence, and with less efficient organization, has never been able to conciliate the warring factions within its ranks to the degree which has characterized republican efforts. Under the magic of the cry of "piling up a big majority" republican leaders have been able to hypnotize elements which have nothing in common into following the G. O. P. banner regardless of where it led or what it represented. It got them coming and going just as at this time, elements which have nothing in common, are united in opposition to Hoover and in support of Dawes.

Nothing in American political history has contributed more to the general contempt of politics and politicians than these unholy alliances between discordant elements in the parties for the sake of gaining victories. They are born of insincerity and dishonesty. They are filled with hypocrisy. They destroy honest thinking and honest voting. We need political leaders who will not stoop to such practices. We need candidates for public offices who will tell the voters where they stand and who will refuse to tarnish their honor in a specious appeal for votes. We need elemental conceptions of rugged honesty in a fair and sincere expression of convictions upon public issues.

Mr. McKelvie is correct when he says there is an amazing alliance between the ultra-conservative international bankers of the east and the radical elements of the central west to defeat the nomination of Herbert Hoover.

It became evident weeks ago that Hoover could not command the support of the international bankers against Dawes, because his political outlook and philosophy did not conform to their reactionary views, but the surprising feature of the campaign has been a union of these forces with elements in the central west which ordinarily looks upon anything eastern with suspicion. What have the farmers, who have been led into the so-called farm revolt, got in common with the international bankers? Not a thing. They are as far apart as the poles but for the time being they have been hoodwinked into the belief that their interest can best be served by opposing Hoover.

If Mr. McKelvie is a new recruit to the ranks of those who have been protesting against the chicanery and deceit of unholy alliances, then he will be welcomed to the fold. But how far will he go? Will he desert his party to vote for a democrat who more closely shares his (McKelvie's) political philosophy than to vote for a radical republican candidate for United States senator, whom McKelvie secretly dislikes? Or will he forget all about this splendid appeal for honesty in politics and go on the stump to plead with members of his own party to "vote 'er straight?"

Mr. McKelvie must recognize there are good men in both parties. He must know that all of the brains and intelligence in the world are not confined to the republican party. And yet he has always been an intense partisan—so much so that to outward evidence at least he has swallowed his own pride and his own convictions to whoop 'er up for a candidate of the grand old party he privately despised.

Ho! Hum! It's a funny world.

LAW ENFORCEMENT FOR REVENGE.

Mayor "Big Bill" Thompson's police commissioner in Chicago, acting no doubt under orders from his chief, announces his purpose to close up drinking establishments at 1 o'clock in the morning, arrest rum runners and seize their cargoes, clamp the lid down on gambling, and make things hot generally for beneficiaries of crime and vice in the Windy City.

This frenzied campaign for law and order, coming as it does in the wake of a smashing defeat for the mayor's machine in the April primaries, smacks of a desire to "get even" with somebody. In fact, the statement given out by Police Commissioner Hughes frankly admits that such is the motive behind his ukase.

The primary election results, he says, indicate that the voters want reform.

"We'll give them reform," he is quoted. "Close up everything. Make a house to house canvass in the hunt for beer flats. Watch for slot machines and any other form of gambling. We are going to make this town so tight it will squeak."

In promulgating its decree, the Thompson regime seemingly admits that the law requiring cabarets, night clubs, and drink parlors to close one hour after midnight has not hitherto been enforced. The whole country knows that crime has been rampant in Chicago, as evidenced by the bombings of prominent citizens' homes; the abduction of underworld leaders who were "taken for a ride" and murdered; the assassination of others shot down on the streets from "death cars" carrying machine guns; frequent bank and train holdups by organized gangs; and other manifestations.

The sudden reversal of policy by the Thompson administration seems to have its inspiration in a spirit of petulance directed against both the law-abiding people of Chicago whose votes put a crimp into the city hall machine and the bootleggers, vice profiteers, and criminal organizations.

The idea may be, on the one hand, to discredit real law enforcement by carrying it to an absurd extreme, and on the other to punish the lawless elements for their failure to rally to the support of the administration in sufficient strength to enable it to withstand the attack of the opposition.

Bona fide enforcement can hardly be expected of an organization which has permitted wide-open conditions in Chicago until they became so aggravated as to cause a revolt of the citizenship at the polls. The orders just issued by the police commissioner do not betoken a sincere desire for the betterment of civic conditions as much as a spirit of revenge. The leopard cannot change its spots; no more is it to be supposed that "Big Bill" and his associates have suddenly become imbued with a zeal for real reform.

Nevertheless, some good is likely to come out of the situation. After getting the hard jolt it did in the late primaries, the Thompson machine will probably show a wholesome respect for public opinion hereafter. With the people of Chicago thoroughly aroused to the situation and determined to have a check put upon vice, crime and political chicanery, there is certain to be some progress made in that direction.

HAGEN'S VICTORY.

Probably no victory that Walter Hagen ever scored upon the links tasted as sweet as the stirring triumph of his British open championship on the treacherous course at Sandwich Friday.

His was the "come-back" fight of a great golfer who had stood on the summits of glory for many years and had then sustained a crushing defeat in match play with Archie Compston, the leading British star, a department of the game in which Hagen was supposedly invincible.

They were saying that Hagen was through and it did seem that the old master had lost the magic of his clubs which made his golf on many occasions uncanny. Throughout the 1927 season it appeared that Hagen would never reach the heights which made him one of the greatest golfers of all time, and except for his victory in the Professional tournament, his record was barren. Then came the Compston debacle after a winter of inactivity, when the British star gave "The Haig" the most crushing whipping in an international match.

Hagen's victory Friday gave him the unique distinction of three British open championships. It brought America to the fore again just when British hopes were brightest. With Gene Sarazen in the runner-up position, it was the story which has been repeated so frequently of late. Hagen is entitled to all credit. He is not so young as some of the men who have been pushing to the front, but he bids fair to be a formidable figure in golf for many years to come. His triumph was joyfully received by millions of golf devotees in the United States.

Questions from Lincoln Star readers are answered daily by the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, president of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. Dr. Cadman seeks to answer inquiries that appear to be representative of the trends of thought in the many letters which he receives.

New York City.

Keeping the Sabbath day holy is a prepleing subject to me. Many of my friends see no wrong though professing Christians and regular church attendants, in playing cards, golf, etc., on Sunday. This is contrary to my bringing up, but do I hurt the cause more by seeming a prude and a kill joy to be avoided than I should if I joined with them genially and carrying Christian sweet temper and good fellowship into the sport?

The Sabbath belongs to the Jew and the Lord's day is your concern as a Christian. Both days manifest the principle of a seven fold division of time which reserves one day a week for rest and worship.

The New Testament is not a book of Levitical codes, so it continues no command for the observance of the Lord's day. This is left to the will and conscience of believers in Jesus. They know from the book of Acts what the apostles did, and those who accept their teaching and practice are bound to set apart the day of resurrection as holy unto the Lord of all true life.

I do not think your friends can justify their conduct as professing Christians, and I advise you to disregard them in this respect. Give no heed to silly chatter about prudes and kill joys. Surely you are aware that no more blessed and jubliant men and women ever existed than those who first celebrated Christ's victory over sin and death. Convey the meaning of that august triumph into all you do on any day and keep the one historic day inviolate for your soul's requirements.

If many devotes of Sunday golf and cards refreshed their inner man as they care for their bodies and for pleasure we should have less folly, perversity and moronic mindedness, and more wisdom, exemplary behavior and mental competency.

Has it ever struck you that among all the animals mentioned in the Bible the cat is omitted. This seems surprising, since cats were common in Egypt and must have been known in Palestine.

It may seem strange, as you suggest, that so common a creature as the cat then was receives no mention in the Scriptures. But if you listened to the feline chorus from my back fence throughout the stilly nights of spring and early summer you might excuse the neglect of puss from Genesis to Revelation.

Its dulcet strains are not conductive to inspirations of a godly sort. Nor can one imagine psalms and prophecies of hope and joy evolved to the cat's melodious accompaniments. Yet, notwithstanding its natural subtlety and detachment, this domestic animal helps a heart and hearth. This may account for its popularity with the Egyptians who elevated it to a high rank in their religious symbolism.

I am an old maid, living in a rural village, disgusted with its tittle-tattle and small minded gossip. What can I do to get out of this narrowing life? I read your questions every day and wonder if you can solve my difficulty. Please mention no names in your answer.

Have you a genuine love for the country? If so, here is one way of escape from the dullness and absurdity of your surroundings. The rustic environment you despise has been deliberately sought by countless intellectual people who preferred it to the roar and bustle of the city. Indeed, many dwellers there would welcome your hermitage if they could have it. They desert the crowded ways of men on every possible occasion and long for the quiet restfulness and meditation of outdoor life.

Moreover, the nitwits who stifle you would repay a closer acquaintance. By all means read Jane Austen's novels. Her little circle of exclusive villagers never widened and she confined herself to it. She knew to the full their "elegant stupidity" and she revealed in it. Immasex intrigues, bloodshed, detectives ture artists demand stage thunders, and the usual melodramatic settings.

But this bright eyed little lady described sceneries and partrayed characters such as torment you and found in their seemingly prosaic ways the materials for her consummate art. The fact is you do not need a bigger realm, but a bigger self, to appropriate the untold riches of your loathed location. The kingdom you seek is within you or it is nowhere. Look for variety in monotony and for dramatic circumstances in drab respectability. They are always there, and visioned hearts can find in them pathos, humor and the kinships of life.

Besides, are there no needy ones to help in your obscure hamlet? If there are, and as a rule they constitute 20 per cent of the inhabitants, way not make the gifts your letter reveals ministerial? The surest refuge from isolation and discontent is to seek your own in another's good. Try it, and your "Main Street" may yet be a royal thoroughfare, brimming with interest and sympathy.

Ladies Must Love

Chapter Thirty-Three.

When they were home again, shortly after nine o'clock, Faith's mother went up to bed and her father remained with her on the porch. For a time he smoked in silence.

Presently, he coughed a little. "It would never do," he said quietly, without preliminaries, "to let mother know."

Faith knew what he meant, knew what he was talking about—no need for him to tell her he had heard Janie's impassioned declaration about Jack Abernathy. No need, now, for Faith to try to deceive him. "No. We mustn't let mother know."

She saw him in the poor light, a thin, gallant figure with, somehow a touch of the military about him. It was the straightness of his back that made her think of a soldier, although he had never fought in any war.

But in her heart, she knew he was a heroic figure, even though his life had never reached into any of the white-hot crucibles where the weak were destroyed and only the strong survived. Life, to Justin Parker, had been as mellow wine gently warming his spirit. Worldly success, the soul-searing struggles, were things apart . . . had been dismissed as unimportant with a genteel negligence . . .

And now, for the first time he was called upon to face pain, anguish that would touch his heart with the hot iron of shame—

"Father—"

"Yes, Faith."

"You mustn't feel too badly—there's a way out. I'm here and on the job. We can straighten this thing up."

He did not raise his head . . she noticed now that it was bent forward . . . never before had she seen his head bowed. The scent of the magnolias was infinitely sweet in the night air . . .

"Nothing like this has ever happened to us before . . "His voice was dry, without spirit. "We've been poor and we've worried about money but it always turned out all right—we got straightened up. I can't see how we can live down disgrace . . dishonor . . it can't be straightened up . . it can't turn out all right . . ."

Faith reached out and touched him on the arm with a soft pressure, a reassurance.

"It hasn't come to pass, yet. There's still time, father. Trust me."

"If someone had struck me a blow on head with a club I couldn't be more confused. I can't imagine Janie—our baby—being mixed up with a ma[illegible]ed man."

"She isn't. She just thinks she is."

"I had noticed she was quite friendly with Abernathy but I never dreamed—I never dreamed—"

"I'll settle it all, father. It's just a fever—it can be cured. Leave it all to me."

Slowly, he shook his head. His lips were tighter now than she had ever seen them before; there was a grim set at the corners of his mouth.

"That duty doesn't belong to a woman, Faith. I've got to face it—it's my job."

"There's nothing you can do—"

"Maybe so, but I'll have to find out. I'll have to see Abernathy. He's got to be warned."

"Father!"

"Warned to keep off. I don't know as I blame him so much—a man will naturally gravitate, if he's that kind, toward a woman—the kind of woman that lets down the bars. A bad woman—"

"Janie's not a bad woman," Faith said, her voice choked with a kind of terror.

"I'm trying to look at the situation without blinding myself with the love we all bear for Janie. After all, she is a woman now and she's a compound of her two parents. Everything that's sweet and lovely and pure in her she gets from her mother, but she gets something from her father, too. I've been pretty far from being an angel all my life, Faith. I've been weak and there have been times when I was sinful—and I suspect maybe I've handed down some of those traits to my children. If there's anything wrong about Janie—I'm to blame. The responsibility is mine and I've got to accept it."

"But you can't father—there's nothing you can do—"

"I can see Abernathy."

"But what could you do—what could you say to him?"

"Faith, while I've been talking to you I've been pondering that very question in the back of my mind. It isn't as though I could go to him free handed and settle with him. We can't have anything public. Tom mustn't ever know and we've got to keep it from your mother. I suspect the only thing I can do is to go to him and tell him plainly to keep away from my daughter."

"But he'd only laugh at you—"

"I'd tell him that first in a fair-minded way. I'd make him see what it all means—how serious it was to me. Yes, Faith, he'd have to behave himself or he'd have to settle with me."

"Settle with you — what do you mean?"

"Why, honey—I've had one or two quarrels to settle in my life. I'm a lawyer and I think disputes ought to be settled in court—when they can be. But there are certain kinds of differences between men that just don't naturally lend themselves to argument with words. If he would not listen to reason, I reckon I'd just naturally have to shoot him, unless he shot me first."

She thought at first he was joking, being funny, but then she saw that his face was set . . . like stone. He had said it . . so quietly.

The Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By Will Rogers.

There was a young investigator that was going around finding out something for his alma mater. He had graduated from a farm school that was helping the farmers to make two mortgages grow where one growed before, and he was making a survey by asking questions.

So this guy stopped at a mighty prosperous looking farm house along the turnpike, and hunted up the old farmer.

"May I ask, please, how you have achieved the success that your fine buildings here show that you been getting?"

"Oh, jest making money and saving it."

"But did the agricultural college help you to do this? Did you take the winter courses in cattle feeding, and did your wife do the extension course in butter making? Did your daughter learn bee-keeping at the farmschool?"

"Nope, not just that way, boy. But school has helped a lot."

"I thought so. This ought to be an interesting course."

"Yep, my wife went to a charm school in town and learned how to doll up and sell antiques to our summer boarders. My daughter went to a dancing school and learned how to be hostess. And I took a correspondence course and learned how to make wormholes in our old furniture, so's it would sell for high prices. We get a good business here now, and we're the only successful farmers hereabouts."

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

An Ugly Rumor

By Thornton W. Burgess.

An ugly rumor travels fast
Until 'tis run to earth at last.
—Old Mother Nature.

There was an ugly rumor going around in the Old Orchard. It had even traveled as far away as the Old Briarpatch, where Peter Rabbit lives. Redwing the Blackbird had heard it over at the Smiling Pool, where he and Mrs. Redwing have their home among the rushes. It was a very ugly rumor. No one liked to believe it. You know, all the feathered folk of the Old Orchard had good fathers and mothers. They are home lovers. They love their babies and they bring them up the very best they can.

The ugly rumor was that a certain person had been sneaking in and out of the homes of others, while the owners of these homes were away. No one seemed to know just where that rumor had started but every one had heard it.

So a double watch was being kept on all the homes in the Old Orchard. If Mrs. Robin wanted breakfast, Welcome Robin came and sat on the eggs, or sat close by. If Mrs. Chippy felt the need of a little exercise she wouldn't leave the nest until Mr. Chippy was right there.

It was just the same way with all the other feathered folk in the Old Orchard. They were very indignant, all of them, and they had a lot to say whenever they got together. And all this talk, this gossip, was about a very modestly dressed person whose name was Sally Sly. Sally Sly the Cowbird was not admitted in good society among the feathered folk. No one wanted to have anything to do with her. No one did have anything to do with her. But this didn't seem to upset Sally Sly in the least. For several mornings she had been hanging around the edge of the Old Orchard and as I have already told you rumor said that she had been seen visiting homes when their owners were absent.

"Tut, tut, tut, tut!" sputtered Jenny Wren. "She'd better keep away from my home. Yes sir, she better keep away from my home." Jenny jumped up and down, flopped up her little tail and looked like a small fury as she said this.

"Don't worry,' said Redeye the Vireo, "she can't get into your house if she wants to. It is we folk who have open homes who must watch out for Sally Sly."

"Serves you right!" said Jenny Wren pertly. "If you had any sense at all, you would biuld inside, the way we wrens do. I never could understand this idea of building right out in the open."

"I wouldn't mind so much," spoke up Chippy the Chipping Sparrow, "if she tried her tricks on people her own size. But she doesn't. She always picks out some one not more than half her own size. I know this much — if she tries any of her tricks on me this year, something is going to happen."

"Meaning what?" demanded Welcome Robin, who had been listening.

"I'm not saying what, but something's going to happen" replied Chippy darkly.

Welcome Robin just had to chuckle He couldn't help it. Chippy the Chipping Sparrow is such a gentle, mild-mannered little fellow, that to hear him making a threat, and that against one twice his own size, struck Welcome Robin as funny. "You probably mean," said he, "that you'll move off somewhere."

But Chippy wouldn't say what he did mean. He just said he would do something, and if you had heard him you would have thought he was going to do something desperate. Meanwhile, Sally Sly the Cowbird continued to be seen sneaking about through the Old Orchard, Sneaking best expresses the way in which she did it.

They were very indignant, all of them.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M. D.
Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children."

THE INTESTINAL FLORA AND MILK

By the intestinal flora is meant the millions of germs or microscopic plants that are always in the lower intestines, and are normal and apparently have some relation to the chemistry of digestion. However when the putrefactive type predominates, harmful reactions result, and it becomes necessary to get rid of them. The putrefactive type is liable to develop in too large numbers, when excessive amounts of flesh foods are eaten and the bowel movements are not normal. Besides the inclusion of more milk with its lactic acid or friendly germs, more fruits and vegetables should be eaten, and other measures to combat constipation employed.

Metchinikoff, who worked with the Bulgarians, believed that their longevity was due to the effects of their diet, which contained large amounts of milk artificially soured with the bacillus bulgaricus. Now the acidophilus bacillus is having its day. It does seem to be a little more active in combating putrefaction; even better than the bulgaricus.

The bulgaricus and acidophilus are types of lactic acid bacilli. And they are good—there's no doubt—but don't forget the ordinary lactic acid bacteria, which are present in milk, are also beneficial.

The lactic acid germs thrive on the sugar of the milk, and in cases where it is necessary to change the intestinal flora, extra sugar of milk is given, to help the propagation of these germs.

It mustn't be forgetten that not all the virtue of the milk lies in its lactic acid bacillis—not by a long shot. Its biologically complete protein (building and repair element in food), and its liberal supply of calcium—which the ordinary American diet is deficient in—are big reasons why we should take milk, in some form—cheese, custards, buttermilk, etc., every day.

A short time ago, I ran the following article:

"There is one thing you want to realize about spinal 'adjustments,' and it is this: If segments of the spine can be pushed into place, they can also be pushed out of place, and pressure on the spinal cord resulting in paralysis or death might result.

"If you want to read of some cases of permanent injury and deaths caused by such work, go to your library and get a copy of the October 31, 1925, issue of the Journal of the American Medical association, read Dr. Edward Blaine's article on the Spine'."

* * *

A few thought this article was directed to the osteopathic profession. It was not. It was directed to the horde of uneducated and unprepared practitioners who claim that all disease is due to subluxations of the spine and pressure of the spinal nerves, and that they can be cured by relief of that pressure.

* * *

Sooner or later there is going to be demanded of all schools that teach the healing art the same standard that is demanded by the medical colleges; four years of training in the special college (for it takes at least four years to get the basic sciences that are necessary to practice the healing art), followed by a year's interneship in a hospital and graduation from an accredited high school and at least two years of work in an accredited college, as a matriculation requirement in the special college. Then the title of "Doctor" will assure the patient that he is dealing with a broadly educated, scientific, highly-trained practitioner, who perhaps is specializing in one branch of the healing art. Then the serious results such as referred to in Dr. Blaine's article will not result.

LOEB DISCUSSES SUPREME COURT

Says Highest Tribunal in Land Is Not Too Powerful.

That the present relations between the Supreme court and congress are of a satisfactory nature was contended by Dr. Isadore Loeb, professor political science of Washington university of St. Louis before the state geography and history teachers' council at the University club Friday night.

The numerous objections made to the present system were reviewed by the speaker. He told of the argument that the court was not originally inended to have such extended power over congress and that such power had been abused.

In the 140 years in the history of our government, only fifty cases exist in which the court declared an act of congress unconstitutional. "This is quite conservative considering the number of legislative matters that have been handled in that length of time," he said.

Dr. Loeb touched on the suggestions forwarded to remedy the alleged excessive power of the supreem court. Senator La Follette proposed that a second passage of laws by congress could make them constitutional. Other suggestions were that the vote of the supreme court should be unanimous or should require seven votes.

Miss Julia Spear of the university spoke of the relation of climatic factors to the economy of cattle production at the afternoon session. "The rate of shrinkage in marketing cattle varies with the temperature," Miss Spear stated. She discussed the capacity of the various soils and the ratios of eastern and western Nebraska.

The alfalfa industry in Nebraska was discussed by Miss Esther S. Anderson of the university. Miss Phylis Rice spoke of the significance of international trade to national prosperity in an address entitled, "Geographic Aspects of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Waterway."

Miss Floy Hulburt made an address on the conditions under which the people of southeastern China make their living. Miss Louise Casebeer of Superior told of a project to include the study of geography in the seventh grade with special emphasis on the geography of Asia. Dr. Nels A. Bengston closed the afternoon session with an address on "Geographic Aspects of the Carribean Problems."

Regional Director To Address Realtors At Luncheon Monday

John J. Wagner, regional director of the national association of real estate boards, will visit the Lincoln real estate board and deliver an address on the "Relation of the National Association to the Local Boards," on Monday, May 14, at the chamber of commerce.

It is expected that at least 100 men including realtors and members of the chamber of commerce and other business men will attend the luncheon that day.

Mr. Wagner is a speaker of national reputation. President Hayes and the executive committee are making extensive plans.

RESIDENTS FILE PROTEST AGAINST BUSINESS ZONE

A protest against the council changing the zone classifications of property at the northwest and southwest corners of Twenty-fourth and Potter streets was filed with the city council Saturday. It was signed by twenty residents in the immediate vicinity of the corner. According to the petition that part of the city is purely residential and any inroads by business will be detrimental to property values and unsightly.

Market Quotations

GRAIN MARKETS.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 12.

Sudden big breaks in wheat values late today followed announcement of an official revision of the government May crop report. The revision raised the estimate of 1928 domestic winter wheat production, and made the forecast 486,478,000 bushels as compared with 479,086,000 bushels, the total given from Washington a few days ago. Late rusnes to sell wheat today and the consequent weakness of the market were much in contrast with an early advance on buying due to a large extent to dry weather in the spring wheat belt.

Wheat closed unsettled, 2⅝@3⅛c net lower, corn ¾@1¼c off, oats, varying from ⅛c decline to ¼c advance, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 10 cents.

Liverpool quotations higher than due gave emphasis today to unfavorable weather both in spring and winter wheat sections as well as to greater likelihood of strike delays to wheat shipments from Argentina. In addition, a comprehensive trade summary issued here today said that in the United States as a whole the 1928 agricultural season is now 15 to 40 days late.

On the other hand sharp setbacks in price at times today warned that the wheat market was two-sided. Advices from the spring wheat belt both north and south of the Canadian line indicated that although top soil is dry and dusty, the sub-soil moisture is ample. Leading interests northwest were also reported as expressing no anxiety over the crop situation and as saying that there is still time for rains to relieve conditions.

Corn trade was largely of a local character, with action of wheat having considerable influence. Cash demand was fairly good with the spot basis firm. Planting continues to progress rapidly.

May and July oats sold at a new high on the crop with the early a good buyer of July. From part of the oats belt led to apprehension of damage.

Provisions were easier on scattered selling. Weakness in cotton and grain had some influence.

The order follows numerous objections made, in most cases, by stations with short range that portable sets disrupted service when moved into their localities. At the present time thirteen movable sets are licensed to operate on a 1,490 kilocycle band.

TWO U. S. PLANES BEGIN FLIGHT TO GREENLY ISLAND

Americans Making Trip to Help Bring Out Stranded Bremen.

Melchoir Has Parachute to Use If Aircraft Unable to Land.

PORTLAND, Me. May 12 —(AP)— The two army amphibian planes bound for Greenly Island, Labrador, from Mitchell field, arrived over Portland harbor at 12:05 p. m.

After circling the harbor the planes landed off the Portland yacht club, without mishap. The pilots had expected an oil boat to come out to meet them, but a heavy wind made this impossible. Instead ropes were thrown out from the planes and they were hauled as close to the club wharf as possible and refuelling was begun.

MITCHEL FIELD, N. Y., May 12 —(By the Associated Press)—Two army amphibian planes took off today on the first leg of a flight to Greenly island to help bring out the trans-Atlantic monoplane Bremen. The planes were bound for Pictou, N. S. and a stop will be made at Portland, Me., for re-fueling.

The first plane to leave was the Oaic, piloted by Lieut. Muir Fairchild, with Maj. Gen. James E. Fechet, chief of the army air corps, as a passenger. The hop-off was made at 9:08 a. m.

The second plane, the Aaib, which left soon afterwards, was piloted by Capt. Ira C. Eaker and Fred Melchoir, chief mechanic of the Junkers company, builders of the Bremen, was a passenger.

The fliers expect to spend tonight at Pictou and take off for St. George, N. F., Sunday morning. If the weather is good they will continue on to Greenly island; otherwise, they will remain overnight at St. George and go to Greenly on Monday.

Melchoir, who will land on the island from a parachute if it is found that the planes cannot alight safely, said the Bremen was in a good location for a take-off. He said he would fly the big monoplane either to Teterboro airport, N. J., or Miller field, Staten Island.

Fechet Heads Expedition.

NEW YORK, May 12 — (AP) — An air expedition of two United States army amphibian planes today was on its way to Greenly island to aid in bringing out the trans-Atlanic monoplane Bremen.

Taking off from Washington yesterday afternoon the fliers spent the night at Miller field, Staten Island, where Fred Melchoir, chief mechanic of the Junkers company, builders of the Bremen, joined them. They hope to reach Greenly island Monday, making stops for fuel along the way at Portland, Me., Pictou, N. S., and St. George, N. F.

The two planes are in charge of Maj. Gen. James E. Fechet, chief of the army air corps. One plane is piloted by Lieut. Muir Fairchild, with Major General Fechet as passenger, and the other by Capt. Ira C. Eaker.

The flight was undertaken at the request of the German ambassador and Miss Herta Junkers, who pointed out that unless the Bremen was flown from her island prison within a few days the rapidly softening ground would make a takeoff impossible.

To Use Parachute.

If a landing by the two amphibian planes at the island is found impossible, Melchoir plans to drop to the island by parachute. The army planes then will turn back to their fuel base at St. George.

The Junkers mechanic will fly the Bremen out if a takeoff is possible.

After dropping Melchoir at Greenly island, the army fliers plan to wait twenty-four hours and if no word is received from him in that time to fly back to the island and attempt a landing in open water. If Melchoir can do nothing with the Bremen he will fly back in one of the planes to make further plans. If it is found impossible to fly the Bremen out, the plane will be left on the island until a steamer can get through.

Two parachutes will be taken along, a regular army model twenty-four feet in diameter and a training "chute" twenty-eight feet in diameter. The army fliers plan to instruct Melchoir in their use.

If the measure is accorded preferred status it probably will reach the house floor late next week or early the following week.

Adjournment Delay Seen.

WASHINGTON, May 12—(AP)—Speaker Longworth said today that it was his personal opinion that the Boulder Canyon dam bill and reapportionment legislation would be taken up by the house before the second deficiency appropriation bill and that it would be impossible for congress to adjourn before acting on the deficiency measure.

The speaker emphasized that he was talking for himself only and added that the question of giving the Boulder dam bill the legislative right of way was in the hands of the rules committee and that he could not speak for that body.

Should Longworth's personal prediction materialize and the Boulder dam bill be called up in the house it probably would delay adjournment until about June 1 at the earliest.

NANCY AND HUBBY PLAN TO LIVE IN PARISIAN SUBURB

MARSEILLES France, May 12—(AP)—The first American girl to wed an Indian prince is to reign as hostess in aristocratic St. Germain in the environs of Paris.

Sir Tukoji Rao, former maharajah of Indore, who passed through here enroute from India to Paris, with his third wife, the former Nancy Ann Miller of Seattle, has bought a chateau near St. Germain and announced that they intend to live there.

The maharanee's right eye was a trifle discolored when the couple walked arm in arm down the gangplank of the City of Baroda. This was explained as the result of a slight injury. She also appeared a trifle fatigued.

Darrow Must Make Second Attempt to Win in Home County

JEFFERSON, O., May 12—(AP)—Clarence Darrow, noted criminal lawyer, who wanted to win a case in his home county of Ashtabula before he deserts the court room, today had the prospect of attempting it all over again next month.

Darrow made his first court appearance in this county in twenty years to hea the defense of James Munsene of Warren, charged with attempting to bribe Sheriff J. H. Smith of Trumbull county. The jury was discharged last night after eleven hours of deliberation had failed to result in a verdict and the case was set for retrial next month.

Fifty years ago Darrow appeared in his first Ashtabula county case to defend a man charged with stealing a set of harness. He lost it. Recently he expressed a desire to win a case in his home territory, and after last night's discharged jury, announced he would return to continue Munsene's defense at the retrial.

BISHOP CLEARED OF ALL CHARGES

Kansas City Conference Finds in Favor of Mr. McConnell.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 12—By unanimous vote, the quadrennial general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church today cleared Bishop Francis J. McConnell of Pittsburgh, Pa., of charges of maladministration and misuse of episcopal power in the conduct of an annual conference.

The conference action was taken on a motion by Dr. Harold Paul Sloan of Haddonfield, N. J., that charges against Bishop McConnell be dismissed "as totally without foundation."

Prior to adoption of the motion, Bishop McConnell took the floor on a point of personal privilege and protested against the statement in the charges mentioning "immorality." He demanded action on the part of the conference at once.

The charges had been preferred by the Rev. George A. Cooke, who lives near Wilmington, Del.

The count alleging "immorality" was purely technical, it being charged under that specification that Bishop McConnell had certified to the correctness of the journal of the 1927 Wilmington conference, knowing that certain proceedings had been suppressed.

Further, it was alleged that he had given approval to the teaching of the theory of evolution in a pamphlet issued by the American Civil Liberties union in 1927. Mr. Cooke declared this was in repudiation of the bishop's "vows as a minister and in violation of the laws of the church, which uphold the Bible as the inspired word of divine truth."

Bishop McConnell told the conference the use of the word "immorality" was improper and misleading, and that it was becoming burdensome to answer letters from church people explaining the misuse of the word. He asked immediate action.

Bandits Invade K.C. Card Club; Keeper Slain

KANSAS CITY, May 12—(AP)—After killing a door-keeper and wounding Walter Franklin, widely known Kansas City billiard player, bandits last night lined up seventy odd patrons of a men's card club here and escaped with a large amount of cash.

The body of James F. Brown, 50, a doorkeeper, was found at the entrance. He was shot three times. Franklin was struck in the chest by one of about thirty bullets he estimated the bandits fired to intimidate the patrons. Physicians said he would recover.

Franklin said at least four bandits entered the place, known as the Hub club, and started shooting at the ceiling. When several men dived under tables instead of lining up against a wall as directed he said the bandits fired into the floor and kicked and beat those who were slow in obeying instructions.

Accounts of how much money was obtained varied, but several witnesses agreed at least $1,000 in bills was taken from one table, in addition to loot taken in a hasty search of patrons.

The River Neutra also is rising to an alarming extent, menacing towns and villages along its banks and causing the populations to flee.

Methodists Hear Jack Johnson In Prohibition Talk

KANSAS CITY, May 12—(AP)—A technical knockout over John Barleycorn before an audience of churchmen has been added to Jack Johnson's long list of triumphs.

Appearing before a world wide prohibition meeting at the central conference of the Methodist Episcopal church here yesterday, the former heavyweight champion was applauded by bishops and ministers when he attributed his physical condition to "not drinking, not carousing and getting a good night's rest."

The veteran negro fighter was introduced by Dr. Clarence True Wilson of Washington, D. C., Methodist dry leader who announced Johnson as an impromuptu prohibition speaker.

"I want you to know," said Johnson," that I am absolutely against whiskey, beer and all intoxicating liquor, because I do not believe liquor helps the human body at all."

After extensive applause, Johnson said he felt as well at 50 as he did when he was 18 years old and that he believed his good health was due to abstinence from liquor and getting his rest regularly.

CONFESSES SLEW YOUTH AND GIRL

James Huff, In Coast Jail Says Conscience 'Driving Me Crazy.'

LOS ANGELES, May 12 —(AP) — James Hooven, 27, alias James William Huff, serving six months for petty theft, today told jailer Frank Dewar that his conscience was driving me crazy" and confessed to the slaying of 17-year-old Ruth Little of Summitville, Ind., and an 18-year old married brother-in-law, James Leo Carroll, of Los Angeles.

Police were sent to Pacoima, a San Fernando valley town, north of here, to arrest Emma Huff, Hooven's wife and said to be Carroll's sister, and hold her for investigation.

Hooven last month attempted suicide in his jail cell.

He told officers he had been engaged to Blanche Little, an older sister of the slain Indiana girl, shortly after his discharge from the army in 1919. He said that his fiancee had jilted him and had fled. Unable to exact vengeance from her, he said that he decided on a plan involving the younger sister.

"I decided I'd kill the kid, and here's how I done it." He said. 'One night I made some quail soup and invited her to have some. In the bowl I poured for her I dropped a good shot of two kinds of poison. Then I watched her die."

Fled to California..

Hooven said he had been arrested for auto theft before the authorities completed investigation of the girl's death and did time in the Pendleton, Ind., reformatory. He was paroled to Robert Wheeler of Kokomo, Ind., but violated the parole and fled to California.

In confessing the slaying of Carroll Hooven said he became well acquainted with the happy young married couple, "especially the wife." He said: "Things seemed to go wrong after a while and I found that young Carroll carried quite a lot of insurance. There wasn't any sense in him having all that dough which he couldn't touch so I decided to kill him like I had Ruth. This was in 1925 and the kid died December 2 of that year."

In the records of the coroner's office is the following notation:

"James Leo Carroll. Died December 2, 1925, under mysterious circumstances. Autospy ordered and men found to have died as a result of acid poisoning. Inquest verdict brought in of death by either suicidal or accidental means."

His views, character and record must be such as to furnish a guarantee that republican principles will be upheld, that no backward steps will be taken and that the policies so successfully inaugurated and followed by our great president will be carried forward.

"We hear much taalk of the various candidates and of their policies. Among them all Mr. Hoover seems to come closest to the standard that we set for this high office.

HAINES SAYS CROP OUTLOOK GOOD IN SOUTHWEST AREA

The crop outlook in southwestern Nebraska is exceedingly bright, according to Superintendent Haines of the McCook division of the Burlington, who was in Lincoln Saturday attending a meeting of division superintendents. Added moisture fn his section, he said, had done wonders in stimulating growth.

The abandonment of winter wheat has been light, he stated, and small grain crops that looked bad have recovered since the rains of the past two weeks. He also stated that pasture and meadow lands were greatly improved.

TYSON-FITZGERALD BILL IS PASSED

WASHINGTON, May 11—(AP)—Without a record vote and without a change, the house late Friday passed the senate Tyson-Fitzgerald bill to retire with three-quarters pay emergency officers of the world war who are 30 per cent permanently disabled. The measure now goes to the president.

Passage of the measure came after the house had rejected by a vote of 145 to 81 a move to send the bill back to the house veterans committee for further study. It also refused, without a record vote, a move by Chairman Johnson of that committee to substitute another bill which he said would cure defects he described as existing in the Tyson-Fitzgerald measure and which he predicted would bring a presidential veto upon it.

The bill will cost the government an additional $2,294,265 annually and will benefit 3,251 disabled emergency officers.

FORMER GRIDDER DANGEROUSLY ILL

CHICAGO, May 12—(AP)—Melville A. (Bubbles) Hill, tackle of the western championship University of Chicago football team of 1905, today faced probably the most serious battle of his life.

Critically ill in a hospital, Hill, who already has undergone three major operations, may be obliged to undergo a fourth. Late last night, his physicians appealed for volunteers to submit to a blood transfusion, in an effort to avoid another operation.

The former football star, who is employed in the advertising department of a newspaper here, played football with Cajtain Marc Catlin, Walter Eckersall and Merrill C. Meigs.

MRS. A. H. JONES NAMED PRESIDENT ORNITHOLOGISTS

Mrs. A. H. Jones of Hastings was elected president of the Nebraska Ornithologists union at a meeting held at Morrill hall Friday. Other officers elected are: Mrs. N. F. Hole, Fairbury, vice president; and Prof. W. H. Swenk, Lincoln, secretary-treasurer.

The menace of deforestation and drainage of swampland to wild life was the theme of an address by L. H. Watson at a banquet held at the Lincoln hotel Friday night.

The speaker added further "don'ts" by asking the members to refrain from killing the hawks and owls promiscuously. Of the dozen kinds of hawks in Nebraska, only two of them are destructive and only the great horned owl is dangerous of the half dozen kinds in the state he declared.

A short talk on the water birds to be found in Nebraska was made by C. K. Hart of Prosser, Neb. Mrs. Zaida Packard Edwards of Omaha read three verses about birds.

Fairbury was the city chosen for the 1929 meeting of the union to be held in May.

OPENING DAYS AT AUTO CLUB PARK POSTPONED WEEK

Opening day at the Lincoln Auto Club park at Saltillo has been postponed from today and tomorrow when it was originally scheduled to be held until Saturday and Sunday of next week, May 19 and 20.

The change in the opening date is made because of inclement weather conditions which have delayed the progress in the improvements on the park. The work is expected to be finished by Monday or Tuesday unless further delays are encountered, it is announced at club headquarters.

Opening days are held each year as courtesy days when everyone may drive to the park for picnics and outings without being a member of the club. A courtesy dance will be held Saturday evening next week at the pavilion.

Several parties have been postponed at the park the past week on account of the repair work being done. The program for the Sunday opening will be under the direction of Fred Putney, chairman of the Auto club park committee.

One State Record Smashed at Nebraska Hi Fest

Fuller, North Loup Hi Husky, Hurls Shot to New Prepster Mark

BY GREGG McBRIDE.

One state record and two group records were smashed Friday when the cream of the track talent in Cornhusker prep circles gathered at the University of Nebraska Memorial stadium for the preliminary events of the twenty-sixth annual track and field championships.

New Record by Fuller.

It was a great day for shot-putters and the husky gents that heave the iron ball contributed the new marks. Fuller of North Loup, the youngster who held the state mark a few minutes during the 1927 championships, drew credit for the new state record when he tossed the 12-pound ball a distance of 49 feet. The effort bettered the state record of 48 feet 7½ inches made by Felix White of Winnebago last year. The heave also went as a new record for group one teams.

The group two shot-put record of 43 feet 7½ inches, held by Karr, Gothenburg '22, and Hokuf, Crete '27, was also put in the shade when Payne of Beaver City cut loose with a heave of 44 feet 8¾ inches. Hokuf of Crete also bettered the old mark when he got 44 feet 2¾ inches.

White Saves His Stuff.

Further record breaking in the shot put may be expected today when the weight men start in the finals. White, the former record-holder, did no better than 44 feet 4 inches Friday, but indicated Saturday morning he plans to do considerable better in the finals. It will be remembered that his record put came in the finals of last year's meet. Campbell of Kearney, Mid-State league champion, also is in the running, his mark Friday being 44 feet 10 inches.

Fuller's other two efforts Friday afternoon netted 46 feet 4 inches and 42 feet.

Outstanding Feats.

Other oustanding performances in the field event prelims includes a jump of 21 feet 2¾ inches by Roby of Nelson, a cast of 152 feet 1 inch with the javelin by Hokuf of Crete and a record of 122 feet 3 inches by Payne of Beaver City with the discus.

The qualifying heats of the cinder events all went in good time and promise all sorts of interesting races for Saturday afternoon. The weather was ideal for track in the early afternoon, but a cold wind whipped out of the north later and slowed the time considerable.

Lambert and Snow.

Lambert, Kearney speedster, who will bid for a new state record in the century today, coasted in to win his preliminary and semi-final heats in the 100-yard and 220-yard dashes.

Dopesters were picking Snow of McCook to give the Kearney boy the big "push." The southwest Nebraska cinder-burner looked like the real goods in the prelims. He ran his heat of the century in 10 5-10 seconds and was timed in 23 7-10 seconds for the furlong.

Techster Fails in Furlong.

Shackelford, Omaha Tech sprinter, had little trouble qualifying for the century, but was shut out of the furlong. He ran the longer sprint after taking a trial in the broad jump, which probably had considerable to do with his showing. Other good sprint performances were turned in by Roby of Nelson, Smutney of Seward and Marthis of Fairbury.

Clem Trumble of Cambridge flashed the best form in the high hurdles, while Barnes of Gothenburg looked like the pick of the low hurdlers.

Islanders Lead In Prelims.

A survey of the qualifiers for the Saturday finals gives Grand Island, Mid-State league champion, a slight advantage in the race for group three honors and the Third City squad would be considered well up in the money if it were not for an accident to Sherffius in the low hurdles.

Scherffius, who is leading in the broad jump and placed first in the high hurdles, tangled with the final barrier in the 220-yard low hurdles and jammed a tendon which, according to Coach Roy Pierce, will keep him on the sidelines during the Saturday finals. He recovered after the spill in time to qualify also for the low sticks.

The probable removal of Grand Island from the race leaves group three an open proposition, with Omaha Tech, Kearney and possibly Lincoln ready to cut in for a good share of the honors.

Crete Leads Group Two.

Crete holds the whiphand in group two, with Hokuf certain to bring in a good collection of points and Stedman yet to be heard from in the mile. The competition, however, is keen, with Gothenburg running strong and Cambridge, Tecumseh and Nelson ready to step forward. Nelson received a setback when Petz tangled with a barrier and failed to qualify in the low hurdles.

Group one forecasts read in favor of Randolph, although the Schaffner-Fuller combination of oNrth Loup will score fairly heavy.

The program of Saturday finals was scheduled to get under way at 2 o'clock.

NOTES OF THE MEET.

The 1929 Nebraska interscholastic track and field championships probably will be a five-place meet. Track coaches in session Friday evening passed this suggestion on to the Nebraska high school athletic control board. The recommendation is a good one, the high school championships having developed to such size that a fifth award would be entirely worth while.

The suggestion was also made that the 1929 meet be divided to include four groups instead of three, as under the present plan. Under the proposed arrangement, group three would remain intact, the division being made between groups one and two.

The coaches were practically unanimous in declaring the "eight-semester" rule detrimental to the best interests of high school athletics. There also was considerable opposition to the 20-year age limit. A petition requesting a referendum on the new "eight-semester" measure is being circulated over the state.

Preliminaries in the 880-yard run were not held Friday, it being decided to run the race in sections during the program of Saturday finals.

The English steeplechases and the Prince of Wales had nothing on a number of high school hurdlers during the Friday preliminaries. There was a spill in nearly every race. L. Carroll of Cambridge had a good lead in his heat of the high hurdles, but failed to qualify when he tangled with the eighth barrier. Petz of Nelson, a fine prospect, lost out in the low hurdles when he muffed one of the jumps.

The field of pole vaulters was the largest in any Nebraska high school meet.

WANTED: LARGER CUBS BALL YARD

Crowds Sure to Overtax Park Capacity For Giant Series.

CHICAGO, May 12—(AP)—Owner William Wrigley, jr., of the Cubs yearned for a Yankee Stadium or a baseball park of Soldier Field seating proportions as his team opened its series with the league-leading New York Giants today.

Every reserved seat at Wrigley Field has been sold for the two week-end engagements and hundreds have been turned away, so great is interest in the games. The seating capacity of the park is 45,000, but 50,000 are expected to cram their way into the plant today and tomorrow.

In addition to the Cubs six-game winning streak, two Giants attracted a large following. They were Andy Cohen and Bob O'Farrell, former Cub, who has just been traded to the Giants from St. Louis.

Pro Tennis Title Won by Frenchman

LONDON, May 12—(AP)— Pierre Etchebaster of France completed his international court tennis conquests today by capturing the world's professional championship from George Covey, British holder of the title. Etchebaster, who took the American title from Jock Soutar at Philadelphia last January, beat Covey by seven sets to three.

Davis Matches Divided.

LISBON, Portugal, May 12—(AP)—and New Zealand each won a singles match today in the second round play in the European zone Davis cup eliminations.

Ed Andrews of New Zealand defeated Pinto Coehlo, Portugal, 6-3, 6-4, 6-0. Jose Verda, Portugal, defeated Young, New Zealand, 6-2, 6-2, 6-3.

Last Night's Fights.

At New York—Phil Scott, England, won over Roberto Roberti, Italy, 10 rounds; Big Boy Peterson, New Orleans, defeated Rudi Wagner, Germany, 10 rounds; Pierre Charles, Belgium, and Arthur De Kuh, Italy, drew in 10 rounds.

At Toronto—Frenchy Belanger, Toronto, shaded Frisco Grande, Philippines, 10 rounds.

At Kingston, N. C.—Addison Werren, former University of North Carolina football player, knocked out Fedro Corri, Cleveland, in sixth round.

At Omaha—Sammy Baker, New York, stopped Billy Drake, Germany, in ninth round; Harold Matthews, Lincoln, and Frankie Paluso, Salt Lake City, drew in six rounds; Al Aultman, Wolbach, Neb., knocked out Harry Cline, York, in first round.

When the vaulters picked up their poles for a try at a new height, it looked like a bamboo forest.

H. D. Gish, acting athletic director at the University of Nebraska, was the meet starter and handled the pistol in fine fashion. The athletes were getting away even.

BRITAIN PLOTS TAKE REVENGE

Golf Stars Coming Over Test Their Skill In U. S. Open.

CHICAGO, May 12—(AP)—With their own national open crown reposing once more on Walter Hagen's brow, a large field of English golfers is expected to seek revenge in America's national open over number four course at Olympia Fields, Chicago, June 21 to 23.

While the entry list is not complete, several English stars, including Archie Compston, probably will enter. In addition, the Argentinian, Jose Jurado, who led the British open at the end of the second round, will compete, giving the blue ribbon event of American golf a brilliant international aspect.

Plans for the tournament were outlined by members of the Olympia Field country club last night. All caddies will be trained thoroughly for tournament play and will be garbed in special uniforms.

The tournament course is a favorite of Hagen's, who holds its record with a 67. The course has been elongated this year to a difficult par 72.

Kearney Victor Four-Team Meet

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., May 12—Kearney Normal won a quadrangular track and field meet, Friday at the Grand Island college field, scoring a total of 68½ points over the runner-up, Grand Island college, which harvested 61 points. York college placed third with 30½ points, while Nebraska City, Central City, trailed with 13 points.

Although the weather was favorable to fast time, no exceptional records were made and no state marks broken. As a whole, the meet was fast. Grand Island college trailed a bad second until the end of the meet, when it took both the mile and half-mile easily.

Rush, Grand Island, was the outstanding star with three firsts to his credit, the 100, 220 and 440 dashes. Lydic, Kearney distance man, and Raue, Kearney track and field man, starred for the winning school.

Ribbons were given to men placing in the events and a loving cup to the winning team, Kearney.

A batting splurge in the fifth enabled Kansas City to down Indianapolis, 4 to 2. The victory gave the Blues an even break in the series of four games.

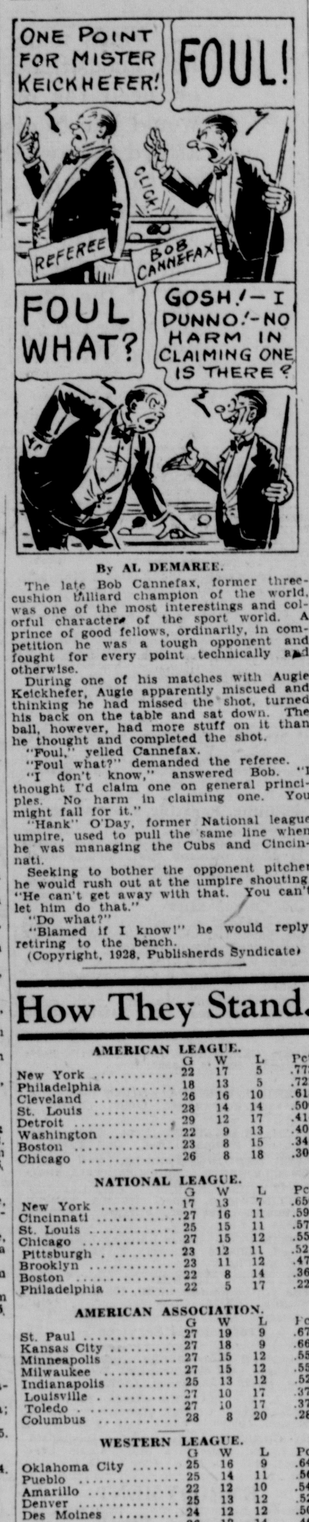
CANNEFAX KEEN TO CLAIM FOUL



By AL DEMAREE.

The late Bob Cannefax, former three-cushion billiard champion of the world, was one of the most interestings and colorful characters of the sport world. A prince of good fellows, ordinarily, in competition he was a tough opponent and fought for every point technically and otherwise.

During one of his matches with Augie Keickhefer, Augie apparently miscued and thinking he had missed the shot, turned his back on the table and sat down. The ball, however, had more stuff on it than he thought and completed the shot.

"Foul," yelled Cannefax.

"Foul what?" demanded the referee.

"I don't know," answered Bob. "I thought I'd claim one on general principles. No harm in claiming one. You might fall for it."

"Hank" O'Day, former National league umpire, used to pull the same line when he was managing the Cubs and Cincinnati.

Seeking to bother the opponent pitcher he would rush out at the umpire shouting, "He can't get away with that. You can't let him do that."

"Do what?"

"Blamed if I know!" he would reply, retiring to the bench.

JOHN BULL GOOD SPORT IN DEFEAT

British Scribes Praise Walt Hagen's Victory Without Stint.

LONDON, May 12—(AP)—Walter Hagen, who has been criticised adversely in the past by the British press, was acclaimed today for his dramatic comeback in capturing the British open golf championship after his recent defeat by Archie Compston in a special match.

Having watched Hagen win the open for the third time, the British experts were wondering today whether another American, Glenna Collett, would have the British women's golf championship in her possession at the end of next week.

No Excuses Offered.

Hagen's capture of the British open made the seventh American victory in nine years and there were regrets and heart-searchings over the British failure, but no excuses were offered and Hagen's superiority was universally acknowledged.

Commenting on Hagen's recovering after being beaten by Compston 18 down, the Times admiringly said:

"Any other man would have been temporarily crushed by that fearful beating, but to Hagen it acted only as a spur. Of the big men in golf, he has incontestably proved himself the biggest."

Most Dramatic Comeback.

"No finer display of sheer determination to overcome difficulties was ever witnessed." Sporting Life said. Referring to the Hagen-Compston match, the paper declared that Hagen's performance at Sandwich was 'the most dramatic comeback in the history of the game.

Sentence after sentence in this vein was written by golf experts and editorial writers on Hagen's play.

That "Will to Win."

Aside from his immediate recuperation from the adverse influence expected to result from his defeat by Compston, Hagen was paid tribute for possessing a marvelous ability to fight through desperate situations with indomitable will and spirit.

"It is true," one expert wrote, that Hagen makes more false shots than any other first-class golfer, but nobody has his mastery in recovering."

Champions Since War.

Since 1920, when the open competition was resumed after the war, the winners have been: George Duncan, British, 1920; Jock Hutchison, American, 1921; Walter Hagen, 1922; A. G. Havers, British, 1923; Hagen, 1924; Jim Barnes, American, in 1925, and Bobby Jones, American, in 1926 and 1927.

Hagen's string of golf victories also includes two American open titles, three American western open titles and five championships of the American Professional Golfers' association.

Inferiority Complex.

Some writers had long faces over the British defeat and asked what was the matter with British golf. The Daily News offered the explanation that it "seems to be suffering from a severe form of interiority complex."

In all the comment, however, there was a notable absence of any carping at the prolonged series of American victories.

"It would be nice," the expert of the Post wrote, "if some British golfer would stem the flood of American victories, but it is pleasant to know that up to now they have been well and gentlemanly won."

Sympathy to Jurado.

Sympathy was offered to the diminutive Argentine, Jose Jurado, in his falling off in the last round, since his earlier play had won keen admiration and at one time it was expected that he might be the champion.

Monday will see one of the two principal foreign ocntenders for the British women's title out of the running for in the first round at Hunstanton Glenna Collett is matched with Mlle. Simone De la Chaume, a French woman who is defending her title.
